

ABSTRACT

A pallet composed of a removable plastic deck and a metal base, where the deck is joined to the base by mechanical interlocking, the deck having depending lugs which 5 interlock with apertures in the upper surface of the base. Preferably, the lugs have sufficient depth and are correspondingly located to receive the legs of a superior pallet in a nesting manner.